GearEngine – The Platform for the challenges in gearing

Daniel Meuris

The integration of software solutions into the production process has a long tradition at Klingelberg. However, anyone facing the challenges of efficient and effective gear production today knows that industry 4.0 and the associated networking of production systems into intelligent factories require completely new approaches. Therefore, all digital solutions for gear production are bundled in the unique GearEngine platform. This modular software solution is Klingelberg's core product for the provision of convincing functionalities for the recording, tracking and evaluation of information relating to components, machines and production equipment for gear production.
